Design automation and knowledge capture

Every business follows procedures and rules for taking orders, costing jobs, and designing and building products, based on experience, system limitations, and spreadsheets full of data. SOLIDWORKS® partially automates design by letting you add design intent with equations, configurations and design tables, but this only works if you know in advance what your customer will ask for and you know all the possible permutations.

DriveWorks Pro helps you capture the experience and know-how of your best employees and use that knowledge to automate your existing processes. Using simple and straightforward design rules and decision logic, you can apply all of your combined design, manufacturing, sales, and cost estimation knowledge to generate new variations of your designs with proposal documents, over and over again.

Anytime, anywhere, on any device

No additional effort, web programming skills or consultants are required to turn your design automation projects into online sales configurators, enabling your customers and sales teams to easily configure and view your products in 3D at any time, on any device.

“ The process of creating drawings, submitting documents and releasing to the shop floor has gone from six days to two hours. ”

Sukhbir Singh,

The design rules calculate the best solution, ensure that products can be made, and quote a price that is both competitive and profitable.

Changes to new product options, pricing, promotions, and marketing collateral can be distributed instantly, so everybody sees accurate, up-to-date information at all times.

DriveWorks Pro Modules

DriveWorks Pro is structured into individual software modules, each designed to address specific business needs. Additional modules can be added as and when you need them to extend the benefits of design automation to your engineers, sales teams, distributors, dealers, and customers.
